

DATA FOR PROGRESS

From June 6 to 8, 2025, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,155 U.S. likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, geography, and recalled presidential vote. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error associated with the sample size is  $\pm 3$  percentage points. Results for subgroups of the sample are subject to increased margins of error. Partisanship reflected in tabulations is based on self-identified party affiliation, not partisan registration. For more information please visit dataforprogress.org/our-methodology.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,155 unless otherwise specified.

[1] Should we ban practices that try to change young people from being gay to being straight, or to make a young person no longer identify as transgender?

[2] "Conversion therapy" is based on the idea that being LGBTQ+ is something that can and should be fixed. An example of "conversion therapy" is attempting to change a gay young person to be straight, even if they are gay. It is opposed by LGBTQ+ advocates.

Do you support or oppose the practice of "conversion therapy"?

[3] The Supreme Court will soon decide whether states should be allowed to ban "conversion therapy." Currently, more than 20 states ban licensed professionals from subjecting minors to conversion therapy.

Do you think the Supreme Court should or should not allow states to ban conversion therapy?
