

From January 8 to January 11, 2021, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1233 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ±2.8 percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

[1] On January 6, a mob stormed the U.S. Capitol and disrupted the Electoral College vote certification process. This came after some lawmakers in Congress said and ultimately did object to the certification of the presidential election.

Do you agree or disagree that these actions are a threat to democracy?

[7] Some lawmakers in Congress are calling for the invocation of the 25th Amendment to remove President Donald Trump from office for his role in attempting to overturn the result of the 2020 presidential election and inciting riots that lead to the storming of the capital building and disruption of vote certifying the electoral college votes.

Under the 25th amendment, Vice President Mike Pence and members of the Cabinet can vote to declare Trump unfit to perform his duties and remove him from office. Pence would then serve as acting President until the end of Trump's term. Do you support or oppose this effort to remove Trump from office?

[10] In the lead up to certification of the Electoral College vote that violent rioters ultimately disrupted, 14 Senators, along with multiple members of the House of Representatives, said that they would object to the proceedings because of their belief that the November election was fraudulent, even though many of them won reelection in that very election. Some lawmakers in Congress are now calling for the resignation of these politicians. Do you support or oppose this effort?
