

DATA FOR PROGRESS

From December 3 to 8, 2021, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 440 likely voters in Nevada using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is  $\pm 5$  percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=440 unless otherwise specified.

This report is for respondents: NV

[1] Some lawmakers are proposing a bill that would provide an earned, permanent path to citizenship for Dreamers (undocumented immigrants who were brought to the United States as children), essential workers, farmworkers, and Temporary Protected Status holders who live and work here legally due to war or natural disaster in their home countries.

[2] Some lawmakers are proposing a bill that would provide limited protections known as "parole" for Dreamers (undocumented immigrants who were brought to the United States as children), immigrant essential workers, and other undocumented immigrants who have been in the country since before 2011 and pass a background check. This would give immigrants temporary work permits and protection from deportation.

[5] Democrats in Congress are debating between providing Dreamers, immigrant essential workers, and other undocumented immigrants an earned, permanent pathway to citizenship or temporary work permits and protection from deportation in the Build Back Better agenda. The Senate parliamentarian, an unelected advisor to Senators, recently said that an earned, permanent path to citizenship cannot be passed through the Senate with a simple majority of 51 votes.

Democrats who want to compromise with the parliamentarian are proposing temporary work permits and protection from deportation, and say that these benefits will still provide undocumented immigrants with more security and certainty while still following the Senate's rules.

Democrats who want to move forward with an earned, permanent path to citizenship say that limited protections are not enough and that immigrants who have contributed to our country for decades need a permanent solution, no matter what it takes to deliver them.

Thinking about the following immigration policies, which would you prefer Congress to prioritize in the Build Back Better agenda?
