This includes lowering the cost of healthcare, making childcare more affordable, making sure workers have paid sick and family leave, funding universal pre-k education, making community colleges tuition free, and expanding the child tax credit through 2025.

The American Families Plan will be paid for by raising taxes on Americans making more than $400,000 and on those who make over $1 million a year by investing in things like stocks and bonds — called the capital gains tax.
