

From May 28 to June 1, 2021, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,304 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ±3 percentage points.

Before seeing question three, voters were provided the following information: "Republicans in Congress are proposing investing $928 billion in America's infrastructure, including repairing roads, bridges, rail lines, water systems, and expanding broadband service. This proposal would be paid for by reducing the size of the expanded Child Tax Credit, which is currently set to provide most low-income and middle class families up to $250 per month for each child 17 and under – and $300 per month for each child they have under 6 years of age."

N=1304 unless otherwise specified. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.
