

DATA FOR PROGRESS

From June 22 to 24, 2021, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,206 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ± 3 percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,206 unless otherwise specified.

[1] When thinking about the national economy, do you think that the government should be doing more or less to protect American businesses from foreign competition, or is it doing enough already?

[2] 'Buy American' laws require that any goods purchased by the federal government for public use that cost more than $10,000 are produced in the U.S. However, waivers can be granted that exempt transactions from this requirement in a variety of circumstances.

Would you support or oppose closing loopholes in current 'Buy American' laws to better ensure compliance by government agencies?

[3] Some lawmakers are proposing a plan in which the federal government would increase its purchase of U.S.-based goods and services by $400 billion over four years, as well as provide $300 billion in funding for research and development of U.S. technological priorities.

Supporters argue that this plan would boost the American economy and better support domestic manufacturing.

Opponents argue that this plan would unnecessarily raise the costs of government projects and put the burden on American taxpayers.

Would you support or oppose this proposal?
