

From October 7 to 9, 2022, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,230 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, geography, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ±3 percentage points.

N=1,230 unless otherwise specified. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

		D	I	R
[1] How confident or not confident are you that the 2020 presidential election was won freely and fairly by Joe Biden?	Very confident	84%	41%	10%
	Somewhat confident	11	15	15
	Only a little confident	2	14	15
	Not confident at all	4	30	60

		D	I	R
[2] In U.S. presidential elections, the candidate who earns the most votes in each state receives that state's electoral college votes.	The presidential candidate who wins the most votes in my state should receive the state's electoral votes	85%	79%	83%
	The state legislature should decide which presidential candidate should receive the state's electoral votes	12	9	10
	Don't know	3	12	7

Some believe that state legislators should be able to decide which presidential candidate receives your state's electoral votes, no matter who received the most votes from voters.

When thinking about how your state's electoral votes should be distributed in a presidential election, which statement comes closer to your view, even if neither is exactly right?

		D	I	R
[3] In U.S. presidential elections, the candidate who earns the most votes in each state receives that state's electoral college votes.	Much more likely	13%	7%	14%
	Somewhat more likely	11	13	13
	Somewhat less likely	15	17	15
	Much less likely	44	41	37
	Wouldn't make a difference	17	23	21

Some candidates for statewide office in your state say that state legislators should be able to decide which presidential candidate receives your state's electoral votes, no matter who received the most votes from voters.

If a candidate running to represent your community in the state legislature shared this view, would you be more or less likely to vote for them, or would it make no difference?

		D	I	R
[4] Some candidates for statewide office in your state say that the 2020 presidential election was stolen and that Joe Biden did not win freely or fairly.	Much more likely	8%	16%	33%
	Somewhat more likely	7	16	19
	Somewhat less likely	6	9	9
	Much less likely	68	32	10
	Wouldn't make a difference	11	26	28

If a candidate running to represent your community in the state legislature shared this view, would you be more or less likely to vote for them, or would it make no difference?