From June 17 to 21, 2022, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,335 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ±3 percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,335 unless otherwise specified.

Social Security is run by the federal government, which provides guaranteed benefits.

Some legislators in Congress are proposing a new rule that would privatize part of Social Security, meaning people would be allowed to move their Social Security funds out of the guaranteed government fund and into the stock market and private bonds.

Which of the following comes closer to your view, even if neither is exactly right?

Some members of Congress are proposing new legislation to expand Social Security benefits.

This legislation would raise Social Security benefits for all beneficiaries in order to match the rising cost of living. This legislation would also protect Social Security benefits against rising inflation, and ensure that no one who has worked and paid into the system their entire lives will retire into poverty.

This legislation would also protect Social Security benefits against rising inflation, and ensure that no one who has worked and paid into the system their entire lives will retire into poverty.

This would be paid for by imposing, for the first time, payroll taxes on Americans making more than $400,000 per year. Currently, payroll taxes are only imposed on those making $147,000 and less.
