

DATA FOR PROGRESS

From July 15 to 18, 2022, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,357 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ± 3 percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,357 unless otherwise specified.

[1] Do you think the federal government should do more or less to protect consumers from banks and debt collectors, or does it already do enough?

[5] The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) is a federal government agency that is responsible for protecting consumers in the financial sector. It writes and enforces rules for financial institutions like banks, loan providers, and debt collectors. The CFPB is considering increasing enforcement on discriminatory practices and on unfair fees.

Supporters of increased enforcement say big banks prey on average Americans with abusive junk fees, like overdraft charges. Corporate interests have long been inventing penalties for profit.

Opponents of increased enforcement say these actions are an ideologically-driven overreach of power, and would radically change America's financial services, limiting consumer choice and diminishing competition.

Based on what you know now, do you support or oppose the CFPB increasing enforcement on discriminatory practices and on unfair fees? (N=1,355)
