ml DATA FOR PROGRESS

From March 29 to 30, 2023, Data for Progress, in collaboration with the Progressive Change Institute, conducted a survey of 1,215 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, geography, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ±3 percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,215 unless otherwise specified.

[10] In 2018, Congress rolled back critical banking protections passed after the 2008 financial crisis and reduced how often small- and medium-sized banks like Silicon Valley Bank (SVB) had to participate in financial reviews that larger financial institutions regularly undergo. The 2018 legislation left fewer than ten banks in the United States subject to stricter federal oversight.

Now, lawmakers are considering a new bill that would restore the original protections and repeal the regulatory rollbacks from 2018.

Knowing this, would you support or oppose Congress passing such a bill?
