

DATA FOR PROGRESS

From February 2 to 5, 2024, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,225 U.S. likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, geography, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ± 3 percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,225 unless otherwise specified.

[4] Former President Trump put several trade tariffs in place, but some consumer groups and labor unions say his trade deals were too favorable to the pharmaceutical and big tech industries.

President Biden left most of Trump's tariffs in place, but also has been tougher on trade deals involving the pharmaceutical and big tech industries.

Which statement comes closer to your view, even if neither is exactly right?
