

From October 6 to 14, 2025, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 366 likely Democratic primary voters in Hawai'i's 1st congressional district using SMS and web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, and geography. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error associated with the sample size is  $\pm 5$  percentage points. Results for subgroups of the sample are subject to increased margins of error. For more information please visit dataforprogress.org/our-methodology.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 30 (<30) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<30 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=366 unless otherwise specified.

[8] Ed Case is the current U.S. Representative for Hawaii's 1st Congressional District, and has represented Hawaii in Congress at various points since 2002. On the Appropriations Committee, he secures critical federal funding for infrastructure, healthcare, housing, and education. He has also worked to support tourism, Native Hawaiian programs, a strong military, and environmental protection. Case believes that it is essential to reach across the aisle to end partisan gridlock and deliver results for the people of Hawaii. He strives to provide accountable, pragmatic leadership to Congress with an emphasis on bipartisanship and fiscal responsibility.
