

DATA FOR PROGRESS

From May 22 to 24, 2025, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,171 U.S. likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, geography, and recalled presidential vote. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error associated with the sample size is ± 3 percentage points. Results for subgroups of the sample are subject to increased margins of error. Partisanship reflected in tabulations is based on self-identified party affiliation, not partisan registration. For more information please visit dataforprogress.org/our-methodology.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,171 unless otherwise specified.

[1] The U.S. has more than 100 "national monuments" — designated areas that protect locations of natural or historic significance.

These include Montezuma Castle in Arizona, Muir Woods in California, Castillo de San Marcos in Florida, the Statue of Liberty in New York, Grand Staircase-Escalante in Utah, Mount St. Helens in Washington, and Devil's Tower in Wyoming.

To the best of your knowledge, have you ever visited a U.S. national monument?

[2] The U.S. has more than 100 "national monuments" — designated areas that protect locations of natural or historic significance.

The Trump administration is considering shrinking the size of six national monuments in Arizona, California, New Mexico, and Utah, including Bears Ears, Grand Staircase-Escalante, and Baaj Nwaavjo I'tah Kukveni-Ancestral Footprints of the Grand Canyon.

Do you support or oppose the Trump administration shrinking the size of these national monuments?
