

From January 9 to 11, 2026, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1,265 U.S. likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, geography, and recalled presidential vote. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error associated with the sample size is ± 3 percentage points. Results for subgroups of the sample are subject to increased margins of error. Partisanship reflected in tabulations is based on self-identified party affiliation, not partisan registration. For more information please visit dataforprogress.org/our-methodology.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

N=1,265 unless otherwise specified.

[14] Below are two statements about President Trump and the United States' recent military operation in Venezuela. Which do you agree with more, even if neither is exactly correct?

Statement A:

Under President Trump's leadership, the United States military brought Nicolás Maduro, a dictator and narcoterrorist, to justice. The U.S. will ensure a safe, proper, and judicious transition. Once the oil starts running, the American people won't be on the hook for a cent of it.

The days of weakness are over. We're at war with drug trafficking organizations, not Venezuela, and we will deploy every tool necessary to eradicate threats to our national security.

Statement B:

While Americans can't afford the cost of living at home, President Trump is getting us involved in yet another forever war abroad. The attack on Venezuela isn't to stop drug traffickers or take out a dictator, it's to distract us from the fact that Trump has done nothing to bring costs down.

Instead of "running" other countries, we need a government that's focused on making life better here at home. (N=632)
